

Mindinvest America

North America as a continent includes a plurality of States of different sizes and economic wealth of the United States located in the Central part argues on the area and the economic development of Canada while next to them is a smaller developing countries. The location is across the continent makes certain features. USA as an economic leader has a strong influence on the adjoining state. Developed engineering and agriculture attracted neighboring countries as a result of closer economic cooperation partnership. The connection between countries is also carried out in the expanses of water without exception, all States have developed shipping. Geographically, South America Sulphuric located smaller States of their economic component is mining and agriculture. The continent is a storehouse of minerals, many mines producing ore needed in industry as well as uranium ores are located throughout the mainland and on many Islands. In North America of the underground mineral resources, oil is today one of the main resources supporting the economy of most countries. The economies of South America in the most part is based on trade, agriculture and manufacturing. Of great importance in the economy of this region has export goods, especially agricultural products industry. Brazil and Argentina occupy not the last place among the countries-exporters of the region. A large part of the region's exports are sugar cane corn wheat soy and coffee. Also an important place in the economy of the South American region is the mining and export of minerals such as oil gold silver copper and iron. During the last twenty years the economy of the region has seen a marked increase. So in Brazil, Argentina, Colombia, Peru, Chile and Uruguay, significantly increased main economic indicators. During the recent global economic crisis, the two countries did not suffer noticeable damage. They made the economic downturn much easier than any other country in the world. One of the main problems of the region is still social and economic inequalities of citizens. South America -- the absolute leader worldwide in the degree of population stratification and differences in income levels between rich and poor. To solve this problem the States of the region have created economic and trade unions like MERCOSUR unites Argentina, Brazil and several other countries as well as the Andean community, the core members of which are Chile, Peru and Ecuador. This Association allows

Link to article:: Mindinvest America